Business Report

I. Introduction

Since the emergence of COVID-19 and the outbreak at the beginning of 2020, there seems to be a silver lining to the protracted development of the pandemic. During the three years of chaos of anti-pandemic and quarantine measures, although the virus's rate of mutation has accelerated, the proportion of severe cases has decreased significantly. Meanwhile, as the coverage of vaccinations in various countries rapidly increased, coexistence with the pandemic and cancelation of the anti-pandemic and quarantine measures have become the norm by countries around the world during 2022. As all the world's major economies have gradually lifted their lockdown measures, the impact of the pandemic has been alleviated. The world is now back on its feet, as each country endeavors to increase its domestic consumption, and investment in its national infrastructure, such as railways, highways, and ports, and launches projects one after another to replace old facilities.

The outbreak of the Russo-Ukrainian War on February 24, 2022 has escalated from a shortterm armed conflict to a long-term confrontation. Ukraine, known as the granary of Europe, has had its grain exports blocked. Meanwhile, as EU countries have banned the imports of energy, such as liquefied natural gas (LNG) and petroleum, from Russia, one of the major oil producers, demand for coal has increased. Due to the impact of the Russo-Ukrainian War, the prices of energy, grains, minerals, and other raw materials have soared, which has significantly reshaped the global logistics and supply chain landscape. For example, the sanctions against Russia's coal imposed by many countries triggered a global rush for coal. To diversify the sources of coal, countries shifted their imports from Russia to South Africa, Australia, and Indonesia. Meanwhile, Asia's imports of coal from the United States have increased, and South America's grain exports have also risen significantly. As the raw materials have been sourced from other regions due to the war, navigation days of cargo ships have risen, the supply of ships has become tighter, and freight rates have been pushed up. Furthermore, insurance premiums and fuel prices have also risen, thus resulting in an increase in ship operating costs and freight rates and benefiting bulk carriers. It is anticipated that the longer the Russo-Ukrainian War drags on, the greater the impact will be on the economy and cargo.

In the bulk shipping market of 2022, the overall dry bulk carrier fleet tonnage grew by about 2.8%, a decrease of 1.2% compared with the last year, while global dry bulk trade barely grew in ton-miles. There was a wave of rebounds in freight rates in May 2022 and a rare growing trend during the traditional off-season in December with the index temporarily returning to 1723 points. However, that was just a reflection of China's adjusted pandemic prevention and control measures on November 30, 2022 in the shipping market, which was expected to help stabilize economic development. With the end of the Christmas-New Year's holiday period, the short-lived market boom dropped to 1250 points on January 3, 2023, setting a record for the largest single-day drop. Overall, the demand for bulk shipping is still affected by many uncertain factors. In addition to the ongoing pandemic, the energy and food crisis caused by the conflict between Russia and Ukraine, the rise in commodity prices, global inflation, extreme weather, among many other factors, global economic activity is generally slowing down due to the increasingly complex and challenging international environment. Global gross domestic growth (GDP) for 2022 was 3.2%, far lower than the 5.9% seen in 2021. The volume of Worldwide maritime trade declined by 0.3%, and the global economy was sluggish.

China is the world's largest importer of bulk shipments, including raw materials such as iron ore, coal, and grains. In the second half of 2022, due to recurrent outbreaks of the pandemic and a surge in new confirmed cases, China's pandemic prevention and control measures and Zero-COVID policy have caused the steel and manufacturing industries to halt operations, resulting in a power rationing crisis, a downturn in the real estate market (in turn causing a crisis of many unfinished buildings), and a drop in the demand for steel, thereby affecting the imports of iron ore and coal. Furthermore, the economic stimulus policy and policy of relaxing pandemic prevention and control measures failed to be proposed at the 20th National Congress of the Communist Party of China as expected, the demand in the bulk shipment market declined, the Baltic Dry Index (BDI) continued to be revised downwards, and the freight rates of bulk carriers began to fall in the second half of 2022 after peaking. Generally speaking, the macro environment of the bulk shipping market in 2022 was highly uncertain in the post-pandemic era due to the Russo-Ukrainian War, global inflation rate hikes, a decrease in demand due to China's Zero-COVID policy, the European energy crisis, and climate change, among other factors. As such, global economic growth was impacted.

As for the crude carrier market, the rapid spread of COVID-19 dealt a huge blow to the global economy in 2020, causing the demand for crude oil to plummet. The crude carrier market has been declining since the second half of 2020 and has remained at the bottom to this day. However, as the impact of the pandemic was mitigated and economies around the world gradually recovered in 2022, with some countries gradually lifting their travel restrictions. Moreover, the impact of the Russo-Ukrainian War on the energy market due to the sanctions imposed on Russia by European countries and the United States has struck a blow to the global energy supply, and the rising demand for oil in many countries has led to an increase in the demand for crude carriers in the spot market, and the crude carrier market might begin to bottom out. Due to the continuous downturn in the crude carrier market since 2020 and shipowners' reluctance to build vessels, the capacity of crude carriers will grow slowly between 2022 and 2024. The European Union's sanctions against Russia will curb oil production capacity and prompt countries to seek longer-distance maritime transport of crude oil, thereby indirectly consuming part of the carriers' capacity. It is expected that the demand for crude carriers will continue to grow in 2023. However, it is still necessary to observe the development of the Russo-Ukrainian War and the impact on the sanctions by European countries and the United States against Russia.

In response to the need to protect the global environment and to reduce carbon dioxide and greenhouse gas emissions, the International Maritime Organization (IMO) has enforced new Energy Efficiency Existing Ship Index (EEXI) and Carbon Intensity Indicator (CII) regulations, which has come into force beginning January 1, 2023. To respond to such new regulations related to environmental protection, the preliminary calculation of energy efficiency index and assessment have been completed for all vessels owned by the fleet of the Company through technical support from various vessel's Classification Societies. In addition to drafting plans to adopt measures in compliance with applicable rules, during 2022, when secondhand vessel prices fell, the Company purchased a secondhand vessel with excellent energy efficiency built by a Japanese shipyard, which will uphold our optimized energy efficiency policy for fleet operation.

Looking ahead into 2023, as the world is preparing to coexist with COVID-19, the spread of the virus and economic recovery will take place at the same time. China is the world's largest importer of raw materials, and its increasingly certain policy to open borders will help facilitate economic recovery. It is expected that the market will slowly adjust and recover. This will have a positive effect on the bulk shipping market. At present, the number of new orders for bulk carriers is at a historic low, and the supply and demand of global vessels are unbalanced. After the IMO's new environmental protection and carbon reduction rules are launched in 2023, vessels that fail to meet the standards will have to lower their speed to reduce fuel consumption, meaning the turnover (days) of vessels is likely to increase, and it may still be difficult to make up for the gap in capacity caused by phasing out and scrapping old vessels. Therefore, the supply of global bulk shipping is still tight, which may boost the performance of bulk shipping. However, there are still great uncertainties over the development of the Russo-Ukrainian War and the degree of recovery of China's economy when it opens its borders. We should continue to observe how these two issues develop.

II. Operating Performance in 2022

In 2022, the Company had a fleet in the size of 15 vessels, including 3 very large crude carriers (VLCC) and 12 dry bulk carriers of various tonnages (including 1 very large ore carrier (VLOC), 8 Capesize carriers, and 3 Kamsarmax carriers). One of the Kamsarmax carriers in our fleet was purchased in October and delivered in late December which is a secondhand ECO bulk carrier built by a Japanese shipyard. Our dry bulk ownership days were fixed on time charter or trip time charter contracts, and we also carried cargoes on freight, for all of which we managed our fleet in a stable manner to maximize profitability.

Consolidated revenue (including discontinued operations) for 2022 was reported at NT$4,242,639 thousand, an 1.27% reduction from 2021. The net profit attributable to the parent company was NT$197,158 thousand, with the EPS reported at NT$0.34.

III. Summary of the 2023 Business Plan

Going into 2023, the Company will continue to maintain a prudent approach to asset management and cash flow generation while striving to achieve the following operation plans and objectives:

- (I) Strict control of the quality and costs of our services, while using technology to effectively decrease the operating costs for vessels, dry docking budgets, procurement procedures, and other overhead, while also executing contracts with prudence.
- (II) Monitor and analyze strictly data, dynamics, and trends in the international shipping market, and carefully select quality clients and pursue flexible strategies of spot and period contracts of short, medium, or long terms to optimize fleet utilization and profitability.

- (III) Pay close attention to developments in marine technologies, including monitoring the quality of very low sulphur fuel oil (VLSFO), scrubbers, ballast water treatment systems (BWTS), new fuel and engine technologies, and others.
- (IV) Continue to identify opportunities for trading of secondhand vessels, disposal of old vessels at suitable times, and planning to acquire vessels, expanding the fleet and continuing the replacement of old vessels with new ones.
- (V) Improve work knowledge and efficiency through collaboration on research with relevant shipping organizations and internal training, and effectively improve onboard/onshore connectivity.

As a whole, the shipping market has had its prosperous, recession, and revival periods. The Company is able to transition through the low phases and develop better tools and insights to achieve more efficient operations by using our years of experience and resources, taking into account both "increasing profits" and "cutting costs" to turn crisis into opportunity and manage vessels more effectively, while at the same time making flexible plans for the markets in long- and short-term contracts and spots, as well as implementing strict controls over costs to embrace the revival of shipping industry so the shareholders may enjoy greater profits when the revival arrives. This is the most significant operational strategy of the Company this year.

- IV. Market Variables and Their Impacts
 - (I) The new tonnage of vessels invested in the bulk shipping market in 2023 is expected to be 0.8%, a figure far lower than 2022's 2.8% growth. In addition, the IMO's requirements for energy conservation and carbon emission reduction in 2023 will accelerate the retirement of old vessels, and the global bulk shipping supply is expected to still be tight. Since the financial recession in 2008, the bulk shipping market has been sluggish. During this period, vessel owners have expanded and accelerated the scrapping of their aged vessels to improve their cost structures. Currently, the average age of vessels in the bulk shipping market has fallen to less than 20 years. The tonnage of aged bulk vessels scrapped during 2022 was still lower than that during 2021. Whether the decreased scrapping will affect the recovery momentum of the shipping market remains to be seen. In addition, whether or not the long-term trend toward net-zero emissions will reduce coal cargo volume remains to be seen.
 - (II) The maritime shipping industry is currently facing many challenges. Besides facing the usual rapid challenges in the maritime shipping market, the industry also needs to fulfill its responsibilities and obligations in reducing environmental pollution. Currently, the focus of the maritime shipping industry is on new energy efficiency regulations, namely the Energy Efficiency Existing Ship Index (EEXI) and Carbon Intensity Indicator (CII) regulations from the International Maritime Organization (IMO), which has come into effect as of January 1, 2023. This will have critical impacts on the maritime shipping market over the next few years.
- V. Future Development and Strategy

We have used a strategy of fixing medium- and long-term time charters with first-class charterers, which has enabled us to produce strong, stable profits over the years. However, as the industry dynamics change, we are no longer in a position to be able to fix those profitable long-term contracts. We expect that the Company will still face many challenges in the dry bulk shipping market in 2023. As opportunities for transformation often coexist alongside crises, the Company must continue to keep up with such changes. Diversification of the fleet to include VLCC and VLOCs is the first step to avoiding excessive concentration of market risks. In addition to diversifying the fleet in order to avoid excessive concentration of risk in the market and to pursue step-by-step development, the Company will continue exploring other types of vessels to maintain the steady development of business. With professional leadership from the management team, outstanding vessel management, and new technologies, we are confident that we can maintain a competitive advantage in a fluctuating shipping market and deliver long-term and optimal profits for the Company and its shareholders.

VI. Conclusion

Adhering to our corporate principles of credibility, decisiveness, diligence, prudence, and continuous improvement, Sincere Navigation Corporation will remain committed to our role as a first-class owner/operator of maritime assets and ship management services in these current times and shipping market conditions. With increased regulatory changes, our compliance and adherence to the highest standards of international shipping safety and marine environmental protection regulations are core to our value proposition. We actively maintain great relationships with major customers around the world and continue to improve the quality of our team's services through technological know-how and training, and we innovate the spirit of the corporate culture. In addition to the excellent reputation enjoyed by the Company, we also are trusted by our customers and strive to maximize profits for all shareholders. Although an unforeseen economic cycle awaits the maritime shipping market, we are profoundly confident of our readiness to tackle the challenges facing us.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT

Opinion

We have audited the accompanying consolidated balance sheets of Sincere Navigation Corporation and subsidiaries (the "Group") as at December 31, 2022 and 2021, and the related consolidated statements of comprehensive income, of changes in equity and of cash flows for the years then ended, and notes to the consolidated financial statements, including a summary of significant accounting policies.

In our opinion, the accompanying consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the consolidated financial position of the Group as at December 31, 2022 and 2021, and its consolidated financial performance and its consolidated cash flows for the years then ended in accordance with the "Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers" and the International Financial Reporting Standards, International Accounting Standards, IFRIC Interpretations and SIC Interpretations that came into effect as endorsed by the Financial Supervisory Commission.

Basis for opinion

We conducted our audits in accordance with the "Regulations Governing Auditing and Attestation of Financial Statements by Certified Public Accountants" and Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Consolidated Financial Statements section of our report. We are independent of the Group in accordance with the Norm of Professional Ethics for Certified Public Accountant of the Republic of China (the "Norm"), and we have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Key audit matters

Key audit matters are those matters that, in our professional judgement, were of most significance in our audit of the Group's 2022 consolidated financial statements. These matters were addressed in the context of our audit of the consolidated financial statements as a whole and, in forming our opinion thereon, we do not provide a separate opinion on these matters.

Key audit matters for the Group's 2022 consolidated financial statements are as follows:

Impairment of vessels and equipment

Description

Refer to Notes 4(14), 5(2) and 6(5) for the accounting policy, accounting estimates and assumptions applied on impairment of property, plant and equipment and related impairment explanation.

The Group engages in bulk and crude oil shipping service. Vessels are the Group's significant operating assets. Bulk shipping service is closely related with the demand for bulk commodities, and significantly affected by global economy. Therefore, the impairment of vessels is the Group's material risk. The valuation of impairment is assessed by management by comparing the book value to the recoverable amount based on the analysis of industry dynamics and the Group's operating plan. As at December 31, 2022, vessel equipment amounted to NT$14,462,784 thousand, constituting 67% of total assets.

The main assumptions adopted in measuring the recoverable amount are subject to management's judgement, which include the estimation of residual value, useful life, future freight rate and the rate used to discount projected future cash flows. The results of accounting estimates have a significant effect in determining the recoverable amount. Therefore, we considered the impairment of vessels and equipment as a key audit matter.

How our audit addressed the matter

We performed the following audit procedures on the above key audit matter:

- 1. Obtained the information that management used to assess whether there was an indication that the assets were impaired. Inspected the accuracy of the information which was obtained from internal and external sources, and assessed the reasonableness of the assessment result.
- 2. Obtained the valuation information used by management in determining the recoverable amount. Discussed the operating plan with management about the income and expenses that may occur in the future and reviewed performance conditions of previous operating plan to assess management's performance intention and ability. Obtained the subsequent information within a certain period to compare with the original plan.
- 3. Compared the discount rate used in the valuation model with the rate of return on assets of similar assets in the market, and checked the assumptions used in calculating the weighted average cost of capital (WACC) with actual proportion of equity capital, industrial risk coefficient and market risk premium.

4. Checked the parameters and the formula used in the valuation model.

Reasonableness of V/C (voyage charterer) revenue recognition timing

Description

Refer to Notes 4(22) and 6(13) for the accounting policy on revenue recognition and related details of revenue.

The Group's operating revenue is derived from two types of contracts which are T/C (time charter) and V/C (voyage charter). For T/C revenue, the Group calculates and recognises revenue based on daily freight rate and voyage information recorded on the contract and as such, the recognition cut-off point is explicit at the end of the reporting period. For V/C revenue, the Group recognises revenue based on the percentage of completion of services rendered. There are many factors involved in determining the progress of revenue recognition, such as, the length of the negotiated period of contracts, conditions of vessels and equipment, the changes of port of discharge and loading, etc.

Given that the Group's V/C revenue recognition involves manual judgement, a significant amount of resources is required in conducting the audit. Thus, we considered the cut-off of V/C revenue recognition as a key audit matter.

How our audit addressed the matter

We performed the following audit procedures on the above key audit matter:

- 1. Obtained an understanding of the procedures of management in recognising V/C revenue, and confirmed the evidence of revenue recognition and the appropriateness of approval procedures.
- 2. Checked the contracts for V/C around the period of balance sheet date, and based on our understanding of the client's operating conditions, assessed the reasonableness of voyage planning developed by management.
- 3. Obtained the location information reported by the crew of each vessel on the balance sheet date, and compared it with management's voyage planning to verify whether revenue has been recognised properly in accordance with the completion of voyage.
- 4. Obtained the related settlement vouchers in subsequent period to evaluate the reasonableness of revenue recognition.

Other matter – Parent company only financial reports

We have audited and expressed an unqualified opinion on the parent company only financial statements of Sincere Navigation Corporation as at and for the years ended December 31, 2022 and 2021.

Responsibilities of management and those charged with governance for the consolidated financial statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the consolidated financial statements in accordance with the "Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers" and the International Financial Reporting Standards, International Accounting Standards, IFRIC Interpretations and SIC Interpretations that came into effect as endorsed by the Financial Supervisory Commission, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of consolidated financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the consolidated financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the Group's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management either intends to liquidate the Group or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance, including the audit committee, are responsible for overseeing the Group's financial reporting process.

Auditors' responsibilities for the audit of the consolidated financial statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the consolidated financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditors' report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with the Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these consolidated financial statements. As part of an audit in accordance with the Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China, we exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- 1. Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the consolidated financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
- 2. Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Group's internal control.
- 3. Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by management.
- 4. Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Group's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditors' report to the related disclosures in the consolidated financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditors' report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Group to cease to continue as a going concern.
- 5. Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the consolidated financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the consolidated financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.
- 6. Obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence regarding the financial information of the entities or business activities within the Group to express an opinion on the consolidated financial statements. We are responsible for the direction, supervision and performance of the group audit. We remain solely responsible for our audit opinion.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit. We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, related safeguards.

From the matters communicated with those charged with governance, we determine those matters that were of most significance in the audit of the consolidated financial statements of the current period and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our auditors' report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matter or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT TRANSLATED FROM CHINESE

To the Board of Directors and Shareholders of Sincere Navigation Corporation

Opinion

We have audited the accompanying parent company only balance sheets of Sincere Navigation Corporation (the "Company") as at December 31, 2022 and 2021, and the related parent company only statements of comprehensive income, of changes in equity and of cash flows for the years then ended, and notes to the parent company only financial statements, including a summary of significant accounting policies.

In our opinion, the accompanying parent company only financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Company as at December 31, 2022 and 2021, and its financial performance and its cash flows for the years then ended in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers.

Basis for opinion

We conducted our audits in accordance with the Regulations Governing Auditing and Attestation of Financial Statements by Certified Public Accountants, and Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditors' responsibilities for the audit of the parent company only financial statements section of our report. We are independent of the Company in accordance with Norm of Professional Ethics for Certified Public Accountant of the Republic of China, and we have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Key audit matters

Key audit matters are those matters that, in our professional judgement, were of most significance in our audit of the Company's 2022 parent company only financial statements. These matters were addressed in the context of our audit of the parent company only financial statements as a whole and, in forming our opinion thereon, we do not provide a separate opinion on these matters.

Key audit matters for the Company's 2022 parent company only financial statements are as follows:

Reasonableness of investments accounted for using equity method — subsidiaries' V/C (voyage charterer) revenue recognition timing

Description

As of December 31, 2022, the Company's subsidiaries recorded as investments accounted for using equity method amounted to NT$18,359,928 thousand, constituting 96% of the Company's total assets, while the share of profit of the investments constituted 210% of the Company's profit before tax for the year then ended. Given that the investments significantly affect the Company's financial performance, we considered the cut-off of V/C revenue recognition as a key audit matter.

For accounting policy on revenue recognition and related details of revenue, refer to Notes 4(22) and 6(14) in the financial statements.

Subsidiaries' V/C revenue is recognised as revenue based on the percentage of completion of service rendered. Many factors are involved in the progress of revenue recognition, such as the length of the negotiated period of contracts, conditions of vessels and equipment, the changes of port of discharge and loading and so on.

How our audit addressed the matter

We performed the following audit procedures on the above key audit matter:

- 1. Obtained an understanding of the procedures of management in recognising V/C revenue, and confirmed the evidence of revenue recognition and the appropriateness of approval procedures.
- 2. Checked the contracts for V/C around the period of the balance sheet date, and based on our understanding of the client's operating conditions, assessed the reasonableness of voyage planning developed by management.
- 3. Obtained the location information reported by the crew of each vessel on the balance sheet date, and compared it with management's voyage planning to verify whether revenue has been recognised properly in accordance with the completion of voyage.
- 4. Obtained the related settlement vouchers in subsequent period to evaluate the reasonableness of revenue recognition.

Impairment of vessels and equipment

Description

For accounting policy, accounting estimates and assumptions applied on impairment of property, plant and equipment and related impairment explanation, refer to Notes 4(12) and 5(2) of parent company only financial statements and Notes 4(14), 5(2) and 6(5) of consolidated financial statements.

The Group engages in bulk shipping service. Vessels are the Company's significant operating assets. Bulk shipping service is closely related with the demand for bulk commodities, and is significantly affected by global economy. Therefore, the impairment of vessels is the Company's material risk. The valuation of impairment is evaluated by the management by comparing the book value to the recoverable amount based on the analysis of industry dynamics and the Company's operating plan. As at December 31, 2022, the Group's vessel equipment amounted to NT$14,462,784 thousand, constituting 67% of total assets.

The main assumptions adopted in measuring the recoverable amount are subject to management's judgement, which include the estimation of residual value, useful life, future freight rate and the rate used to discount projected future cash flows. The results of accounting estimates have a significant effect on evaluating the recoverable amount. Therefore, we considered the impairment of vessels and equipment as a key audit matter.

How our audit addressed the matter

We performed the following audit procedures on the above key audit matter:

- 1. Obtained the information that management used to assess whether there was an indication that the assets were impaired. Inspected the accuracy of the information which was obtained from internal and external sources, and assessed the reasonableness of the assessment result.
- 2. Obtained the valuation information used by management in determining the recoverable amount. Discussed the operating plan with management about the income and expenses that may occur in the future and reviewed performance conditions of previous operating plan to assess management's performance intention and ability. Obtained subsequent information within a certain period and compared with the original plan.
- 3. Compared the discount rate used in the valuation model with the rate of return on assets of similar assets in the market, and checked the assumptions used in calculating the weighted average cost of capital (WACC) with actual proportion of equity capital, industrial risk coefficient and market risk premium.

4. Checked the parameters and the formula used in the valuation model.

Responsibilities of management and those charged with governance for the parent company only financial statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the parent company only financial statements in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of parent company only financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the parent company only financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the Company's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management either intends to liquidate the Company or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance, including the audit committee, are responsible for overseeing the Company's financial reporting process.

Auditors' responsibilities for the audit of the parent company only financial statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the parent company only financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditors' report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with the Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these parent company only financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with the Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China, we exercise professional judgment and professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

1. Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the parent company only financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.

- 2. Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control.
- 3. Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by management.
- 4. Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Company's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditors' report to the related disclosures in the parent company only financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditors' report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Company to cease to continue as a going concern.
- 5. Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the parent company only financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the parent company only financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.
- 6. Obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence regarding the financial information of the entities or business activities within group to express an opinion on the financial statements. We are responsible for the direction, supervision and performance of the audit. We remain solely responsible for our audit opinion.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, related safeguards. From the matters communicated with those charged with governance, we determine those matters that were of most significance in the audit of the parent company only financial statements of the current period and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our auditors' report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matter or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.
